

MADDI RICE-KILPER

Maddi Rice-Kilper lives in St. Louis, Missouri, with her husband, Ben, and their dog, Dolly. She enjoys hiking, shopping, watching Blues hockey, and spending time with loved ones.

Maddi's journey in the Catholic faith began when she was young and asked her grandma if she could go to church with her. As she grew in her faith, she developed a desire to receive the Eucharist and eventually decided she wanted to become Catholic. She was baptized and received her First Communion. She holds a bachelor's degree in psychology from Maryville University and, after discerning God's call to youth ministry, now serves as the Youth Minister at St. Paul Catholic Church in Fenton, Missouri. St. Paul holds a special place in Maddi's heart, as it is where she grew in her faith and met her husband, Ben, through youth ministry as a teen.

Maddi is passionate about helping young people encounter Jesus, grow in their relationship with Him, and discover that they have a place in the Church where they are known, loved, and belong. She hopes to continue growing in her own relationship with the Lord while sharing the beauty of the Catholic faith and the gift of the Eucharist with others.

mkilper@stpfenton.org